

Animal MasterWorks Series

Sue Becker welcomes her very special guest

Paul McCutcheon, D.V.M.

acclaimed holistic veterinarian and co-author of “The New Holistic Way for Dogs and Cats:
The Stress-Health Connection”

Monday, April 30th, 7 - 8 p.m. ET

Join the call - $17

Click here to register

Chances are, you already know that stress affects your health. Have you ever thought about the ways it affects your cat's or dog's health?

For 50 years, Dr. Paul McCutcheon has been helping the animals who come to his holistic veterinary clinic recover from the stress in their lives and the problems it causes them. Helping his clients understand what stresses out their pets and what they can do about it are two special benefits of his approach.

Stress affects every aspect of the health of dogs and cats. It underlies every health problem that can befall a pet — from the allergies, cancer, and auto-immune conditions so rampant in dogs and cats today to the viral and bacterial diseases they can catch.

But stress comes in many forms: along with emotional stress, it can even hide in the foods your pet eats, his exercise routine and so much more!

On this MasterWorks call, learn what you can do to minimize stress and the associated health issues for your animal friend and help him be the very best he can be throughout his lifetime.

Join us in the interactive learning of this informative hour. You'll have the opportunity to ask questions live or to email them ahead if you can't make the live call, then listen later to the replay.

Our animals share our lives and our love. They bring amazing gifts and teach us about our world and ourselves. They offer forgiving, unconditional love and remind us who we really are and where we come from. They open us up to new, higher levels of grace.

Our animals show us the way to re-connection.

The Animal MasterWorks Series offers listeners opportunities to participate in interviews with respected animal professionals who are on the leading edge of natural animal care, helping you enhance and maintain your animal friends' physical, emotional and spiritual wellness and so allowing them to reach their very highest potential.

Please join us for this event! If you can't attend the live call – register and then access the call replay later and/or download it. Email your question ahead to suebecker@cyg.net so we can address it on the live call.

Click here to register

Please note, Dr. McCutcheon cannot treat individual animals by way of this call.

Paul McCutcheon, D.V.M. is a highly acclaimed holistic veterinarian. He founded the East York Animal Clinic in 1962 - currently serving 5000 patients - after completing his DVM at the Ontario Veterinary College. He has a long history of media involvement including radio, television and print. He has served his profession in numerous capacities, including President of the Toronto Academy of Veterinary Medicine, Director of the American Holistic Veterinary Medical Association, the Human-Animal Bond Association of Canada and co-founder of the Veterinary Emergency Clinic in Toronto, Canada.

Dr. McCutcheon authored the "Ask a Vet" column for Chatelaine magazine and has contributed numerous articles to Pets Quarterly, Dogs Annual, Alive Magazine, Health Naturally, California Veterinarian, Canadian Veterinary Journal, and the Journal of the International Institute of Stress. He hosted the popular Canadian television series "Perfect Pet People" and "People and Pets" as well as the radio show "People and Pets", and was the sole veterinarian to speak at the Second International Symposium on Stress Management in the company of Hans Selye and a number of Nobel Prize winners.

Sue Becker is an internationally-known animal communicator, Tellington TTouch Training® practitioner for companion animals, practitioner for Bach Flower Remedies™ for humans and animals, and energy healing practitioner including Reconnective Healing™. She is a sought-after consultant for animal behavior and well-being issues. Sue is a regular contributor to Animal/Feline Wellness Magazine and her work has appeared/been cited in several publications including Trot Magazine, Cat Fancy Magazine and in the book Animals in Spirit by Penelope Smith. Sue is passionate about teaching how to strengthen and deepen human-animal relationships through compassion, understanding and empowerment and helping our animal friends be the very best they can be. She lives in Kitchener, Ontario, Canada with four cats and a variety of fish.